

2023 Durham Art Gallery Executive Board of Directors

Paige Crewson (PRESIDENT) is a lawyer with more than 20 years of experience spent working at top law firms in Canada and abroad. She has also held in-house roles including a General Counsel position. She has in-depth experience negotiating and documenting commercial transactions (including in the public-private finance sphere) and a working knowledge of corporate governance, compliance and risk management.

Jenny Iserman (Vice President & Treasurer) is retired Ontario public service program consultant policy analyst who is affiliated with local non-profit organizations (Women's House, Kincardine and Women's Centre, Owen Sound). As a program consultant with a social services ministry, she has worked with numerous non-profits with a focus on policy, funding, and accountability issues, all of which are integral to supporting to DAG's goals.

Yvonne Pelletier (Secretary) As faculty (professor/senior lecturer) with extensive committee and governance experience at universities in the US, as well as a career in advertising and professional communication, Pelletier assists the board with communication, promotion, and fundraising, as well as with general administrative functions. Currently the Coordinating Director of a local literary festival (Words Aloud) and a Library Board member, she has also established strong relationships with local organizations that work with DAG.

Pat Morden (Director) has held professional roles as front-line nurse, faculty member, CEO, Board member, and Captain of a world championship team. She is currently the Chief Coach at StoneHill Farm, where she coaches individuals, teams, and organizations. Her work includes strategic action planning, mediation, leadership development, all of which contribute to the successful operation of the gallery and board.

Peter Fallis (Director)— Longstanding member of the community, Peter has practiced law for several decades as partner of Fallis, Fallis & McMillan. He has been a Director of the Saugeen Economic Development Corporation for over 30 years, which built the Hanover Airport; he was instrumental in establishing of the Durham Medical Clinic Building and fighting to keep local hospitals open. Peter joined the Board of Durham Art Gallery in 2017 and has been active in advocating for its role in the community. His advocacy and legal expertise, as well as his connections to the community, add dimension to board and gallery operations.

Amy Corner (Director) worked for 13 years as the Advertising Director for Canadian Art, the print and digital media properties of the Canadian Art Foundation. She is a highly creative, client focused, arts professional with a proven track record for driving revenue. In her personal life Amy has years of community building through innovative community engagement strategies. Amy lives in West Grey and is currently involved in a fund-raising initiative for Grey County youth.